dedication

to dr. cecil e. abernethy

what we are and will be is largely determined by the influence of others upon us in the years of our mental growth and development. elements of both good and evil are nourished by our association with those whom we respect and admire. it is in this way that our teachers have the deepest effect upon us and it is for this reason that the importance of their task cannot be overemphasized.

realizing this, we gratefully dedicate this 1949 southern accent to dr. cecil e. abernethy, whose influence has always been highly conducive to the development of ambition, integrity, and love of learning in us his students. his zeal for advancement in the standards of the college, his personal code of ethics, and his vast knowledge of the esoteric and romantic have in large part made the latter years of our education enriched beyond our hopes. it is under his guidance that we have learned to appreciate the present through cherishing the literature of the past. the memory of our days at birmingham-southern will always be influenced by our veneration and affection for doctor ab.

classes took up a large part of the days with chapters to be devoured and notes to be taken and forgotten. the most pleasant way to study was out on the lawn, but it seemed that those study groups always turned into gab sessions. still we must have learned something even if it was only how to balance armloads of books.

we found a little time to stop in at the bookstore to be social over a coke or cup of coffee. the bookstore was the center of extra-curricular activity which sometime spilled over into the cars parked outside. these served as study halls, date parlours, lockers, meeting places, chapter rooms, etc. so well, in fact, that no one ever had the least doubt where to find somebody down at the bookstore, of course!

the same things—

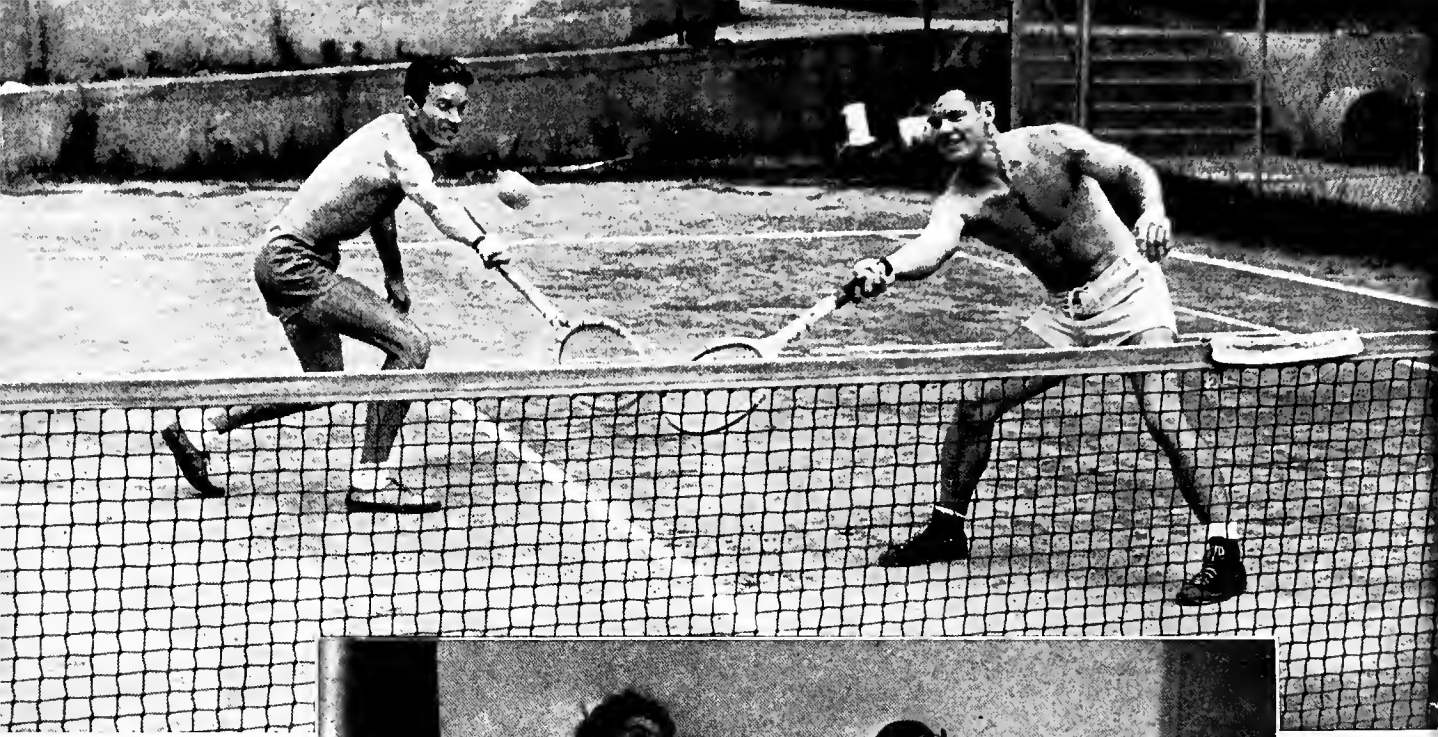

some things never seemed to change. term papers, like death and taxes, were always with us and were unfailing tedious and painful. even a sympathetic friend didn't help much. another trial was those sandwiches. the wise learned to look before they leaped because you never knew what you would find.

over and over

repetition makes anything bearable or so it seemed to be with convocation. a few agreeable souls actually got there early, probably in hopes of having a half hour of credit added. another regular task was looking for the mail which, although not a chore in itself, was occasionally made one by the position of the boxes.

there were pastimes—

the athletes got out on the tennis courts and worked themselves into a lather while the sedentary went in for self improvement and easy chairs. it was hard to decide which was more difficult—chasing a tennis ball or trying to adjust that record player. each had its own reward.

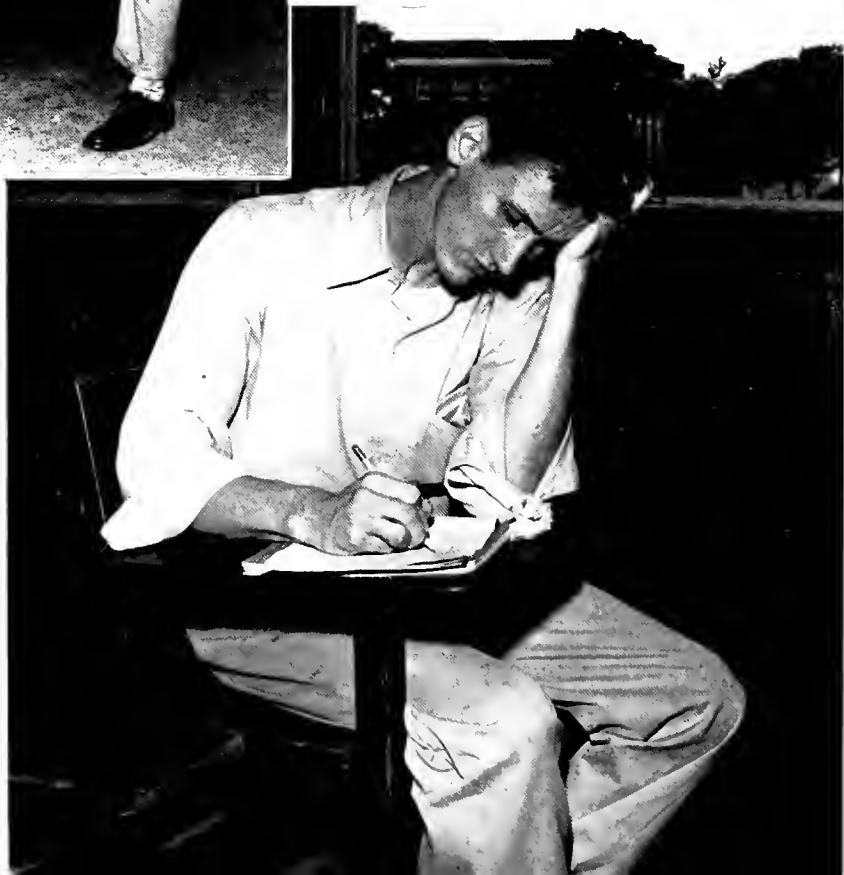

of all kinds

the highbrows argued whether good is the ultimate reality while the lowbrows argued whether it's better to leave the bid in no trump or overbid. neither question was ever settled but it was pleasant to explore the possibilities.

frustration—

we were always meeting with defeats of one kind or another—either the candy machine stuck or the professor asked us the one thing we didn't know. but we ascribed it all to character development and went blithely on.

and triumph

because we knew that with a little careful planning, our turn would come and it always did, what delight to sit on top of the world (on the steps of studac) and pin on a fraternity pin surrendered by an enthralled swain! or to offer to demonstrate the voting machine to the end of your dreams, only to find her all too willing to learn!

if life seemed useless—

never did the grim reaper seem so enticing as the day in biology lab when we came face to face with that rana catesbyana. and never before did subsequent events prove a first impression to be so correct. another cross was the mile long hike up the hill which made fair women weep and strong men tremble.

things looked up

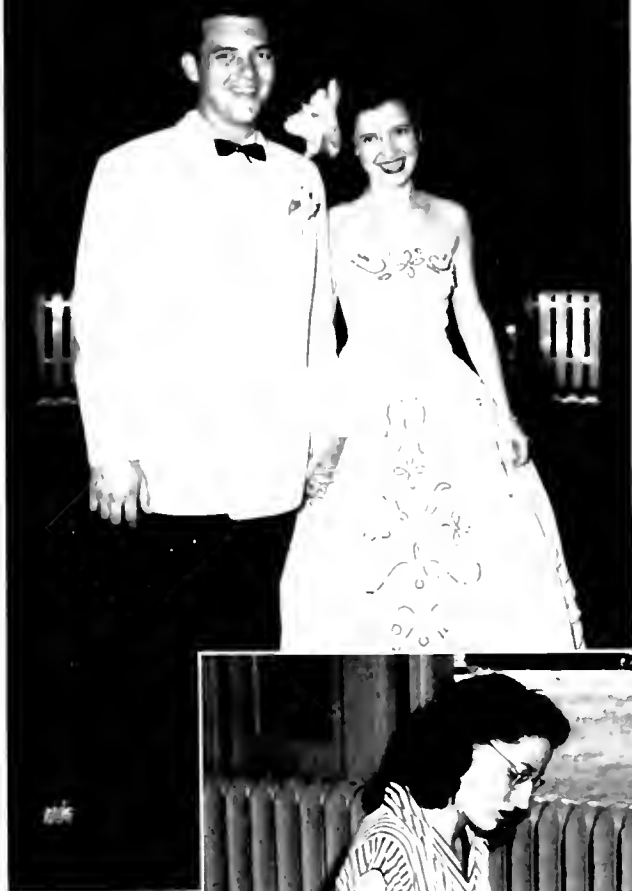

but distractions of all kinds came at the proper moment to make life interesting again. who would imagine that there could be anything fascinating about looking up material for a history report or spending the evening at home in andrews? still there were moments at the card catalogue or in the date parlour which were of import.

at a backward glance—

it was a pretty wonderful year, everything considered. we had a lot of good times and a lot of trouble. there were plenty of days when we worked without playing and other days when we played without working.

the year had everything we went to dances instead of studying and we paid for it through enforced consultations with our advisors. at the same time, though, we were exploring life and learning to get the best from it. we felt the years slipping through our fingers and tried to hold them, then let them go without regret because we knew that there would be many more good ones ahead.

what is the administration of a college exactly? a sort of removed, cold machine that handles money, makes out reports, and keeps records? it may be that at some other colleges but not at birmingham-southern. here, the administration is people we all know and whom we consider our friends. it is true that our administration is partly contact making and alumni records but it is also the friendly interest of dr. stuart and dean shanks, the pleasantness of mrs. wager and miss crawford, the cheery greetings of mrs. hale and miss macmahon, and the friendly concern of all the people on second floor munger. our administration is efficiency and friendliness, ambition and satisfaction, competence and warmth.

in preparing the '49 accent, the editor was faced with the eternal problem of how best to lay out the classes section. since southern does not divide its student body in the conventional manner but into an upper and lower division, any attempt to separate the students into classes would be artificial. for that reason, the students are classified as they are by the college, either as upper or lower division. we mingled on the campus and in classes. it seems appropriate that we should be together in the accent.

The Honor Council is composed of five students duly elected by the student body, and the faculty of the college. The purpose of this group is to supervise the enforcement of the honor system provided for by the Constitution. This system involves the abolishment of the proctor method of examinations as well as establishes an atmosphere of mutual trust and respect between students and faculty. Any violator of the Honor Code is brought before this Council.

The Southern Accent is the yearbook of Birmingham-Southern College. The editor and business manager are elected by the popular vote of the student body and are free to select their own staff members, subject only to the supervision of the Publications Board. It is the task of the editor to plan and execute the layout of the entire book while the business manager sees to it that advertising space is sold in sufficient quantities to keep the venture in the black. Since the Accent is a record of the year at Southern, the staff endeavors to include as many phases of student activity as is possible. A complete photographic record is made of classes, sports, special events, and the trivia of daily happenings in order that the student may always have in hand a tangible memory of the happy days spent on the Hilltop. Other less pleasant memories include those the editor has of trying to get people to show up in sufficient numbers to have class and group pictures made. The business manager, too, has unhappy recollections of contracts and red ink. In spite of the minor drawbacks, however, the Southern Accent remains one of the most interesting and enjoyable student activities.

Fuzzy Pictures and Fuzzy Minds

DONALD DEAGON
Composure at all times

The Hilltop News is the weekly newspaper about college events published by Southern students. The editor and business manager are chosen in the general election held once a year in the Spring and hold office for the following four quarters. All actions of the News staff are reviewed by the Publications Board which also checks the financial status regularly. The editor and his selected staff cover the news events at Southern fully and the paper includes not merely news but editorials, social happenings, sports events, cartoons, and features. The business manager and her aides sell and lay out ads and keep the books well balanced. The early Monday deadline insures the delivery of the paper on Friday morning and the flunking of any test the editor may have on Tuesday. From the often poorly planned and executed issues of the war years, the Hilltop News has become a skillful and excellent graph of student life.

it is no secret that the girls at birmingham-southern are among the most beautiful anywhere—any fool kin plainly see it. this situation makes for a very pleasant atmosphere but leads to great difficulties when the yearly contest is held to select miss southern accent, beauty queen of the hilltop. when all the girls are beautiful, how can you select any one as the best? the beauties for 1949 well illustrate the problem of picking the most attractive. here they are and they are all lovely. . . .

The College Theater is the student dramatic group at Birmingham-Southern who produce and act in plays which they feel will be of dramatic experience to the cast and will be of interest to the student body as a whole. In the season of 1948-49, two plays—"Alice in Wonderland" and "The Rivals" were produced. The former was directed by Cecil Abernethy and the latter was under the guidance of Arnold Powell. The College Theater is generally accepted to be one of the best and most important of student activities. Not only do the productions attract a large number of students but a large amount of off-campus patrons as well. Membership in the College Theater is composed of all students who have done work on any production or who display interest in the dramatic field.

Andrews Hall is the dormitory for women students at Birmingham-Southern. Its membership is composed of those women from out of town and those who cannot tear themselves away from the Hilltop even though they live in the city.

All together for once

Living at Andrews Hall is a unique experience, so the inmates say. The community life gets to be a strain at times what with a loudspeaker blaring out peculiar messages at odd hours such as "Jerry Culver—he's here" or "Jackie Wise—you have a visitor, at last." The girls seem to bear up gloriously, however. The room mate system is occasionally confusing since all the girls wear their room mate's clothes thereby making the situation from the back most bewildering. One hardly knows whether to yell at Rosie Johnston or not—she might turn out to be Dot Kicker wearing that blouse of Rosie's that she particularly likes. In addition to this, the dorm road is a stumbling block to the popularity of all the girls since only the most devoted of swains dare to brave its perils. Yes, life at Andrews is quite an experience—but, fun.

an omnipresent and very colorful aspect of college life are the fraternities and sororities. the extra-curricular activities in college are in large part what they are because of the greeks. long after we have forgotten the first emperor of rome and the dates of the french revolution we will remember the sacred password and the meaning of the mystic symbols on the pin. the fraternities and sororities at southern account for much gaiety, much activity, and much friendship. they are the protectors of student spirit.

Because the social life of Southern is so largely dependent upon the Greek organizations, those students who had belonged to Greek letter organizations at other institutions thought it advisable to organize at Southern for the purpose of engaging in extra-curricular activity. The Stray Greeks was the result. Although they have only been organized for a comparatively short period, nevertheless the Stray Greeks have become an integral part of Greek organizations on the campus. Their socials, picnics, and dances attract as much attention as comparable activities of the campus fraternities. The Stray Greeks sponsor yearly "The Ugliest Man on the Campus" contest for the purpose of determining that pulchritudinous individual. This has met with a great deal of success and has become an all-campus function of which the Stray Greeks are justly proud.

The ATO's are the "let's have a party" boys who also find sufficient energy left after those Cave Room shindigs to win football championships and hold down some of the key spots on the Hill. . . . Although they are frequently floored by a surprise visit from their Province Chief, they recover quickly and go on to new laurels and "small parties." . . . Versatility is the great virtue of the Maltese Crossers and the mighty titans of the gridiron often double as actors in plaque winning Catspaw stunts. . . . These plaques are among the most tangible of ATO's trophies which include such honors as numerous all star titles, a presidency of the student body, three Who's Who members, several spots in ODK, the editorship of the Southern Accent, a former business manager of same, and the head offices in the College Theater and Eta Sigma Phi as well as a large representation in all the honor organizations. . . . All this is small berries, however, compared to the ATO-held title of the Ugliest Man on Campus which a Tau brother ran away with in his best track style. . . . The presence of a large amount of grey matter is evident among these boys, fifty per cent of whom answer to the name of "chrome dome." . . . How bald can you get?

The Delta Sigs are the boys who do not confine themselves merely to on-campus activities but those everywhere else as well . . . This ability to stick a finger in every pie has resulted most recently in the establishment of a brand new chapter at Howard which is now claiming the fraternal attention of the men at Southern . . . Not too much interest to preclude a lively concern with events on the Hill, however, as was obvious when a quorum of members showed up barefooted on Sadie Hawkins Day . . . The Delta Sigs go at everything with vim and vigor which always results in a very good showing athletically, socially, and histrionically . . . What else is there left to be good in? . . . Toreadors and the International Relations Club claim the enthusiastic support of a number of the boys as do Theta Chi Delta and the Methodist Student Movement . . . The Hilltop News is subject to the tender mercies of a Delta Sig editor and the diamond-shaped pin is frequently stuck on sweaters adorned with large letters won for excellence on the field of sport . . . The College Theater comes in for its share of participation on the part of the Delta Sigs—in fact, so much so that it is almost impossible to imagine a play or Starlight Opera without at least one Delta Sigma Phi name on the program. theta chi

The snakes on their pin may be enough to give everyone else the cold shivers but the Theta Chi's are always too busily engaged in giving parties and playing basketball to notice those tokens of Saint Patrick . . . The cry of wassel is eternally in the throats of the Crossed Swordsmen who will seize upon the slightest excuse to toss a party. . . . The Christmas and Halloween parties, although famous in their own right, are eclipsed by the plushy leadout which the campus depends on for the tone of the following social season. . . . By far the biggest event in the OX calendar, however, is the Rebel Reunion—a giant conclave staged in the spring as an excuse for a meeting of all the Southern chapters of Theta Chi. . . . In the past, Southern's Beta Xi chapter was host to the Rebels, an ordeal from which they recovered sufficiently to jaunt happily down to the Reunion grounds in Florida in '48. . . . The snakes and swords are present wherever there is activity on the Hill, the Hilltop News having just been relinquished by an exhausted Theta Chi editor and the Interfraternity Council was until recently ruled by one of the brothers. . . . It seems that the "X" marks an important spot.

Don't mention Yankees around these boys unless you want to be snowed under in an avalanche of Rebel Yells, Confederate flags, and choruses of "Dixie." . . . Where the KA's congregate, you'll sooner or later come across a picture of Robert E. Lee, the spiritual founder of their order. . . . This glorification of the Old South results not only in an impressive Plantation Ball every year but in a spirit which makes Kappa Alpha a winner in everything. . . . The athletic prowess of these boys was well evidenced by the way they piled up the points to win the Track Meet in '48, thereby adding another cup to the general clutter of their mantelpiece. . . . The varsity basketball squad had a large number of KA members who helped rack up a number of good showings during the season and every phase of Intramural sports had the Cross and Shield boys battling for top spot. . . . The grades didn't suffer from all this muscular exertion, however, since the KA's maintained a high enough average to win the Scholarship Cup. . . . Individual activities included spots in ODK and the Choir as well as offices in Skull and Bones and Eta Sigma Phi. . . . Two KA's departed for Washington to study economics and spy in Yankee territory during the year while the others stayed behind to keep the Stars and Bars flying on Jeff Davis' birthday to the strains of "Oh, I wish that I was in the land of cotton—."

The "House on the Hill" is the scene of many gala events staged by the Lambda Chi's whose Bowery and Monte Carlo parties have gotten to be a tradition during Rush Season. . . . Bystanders have at times wondered whether the walls could stand the impact of so much gaiety but so far the roof has managed to remain in a state of suspension. . . . Also suspended in a round of activities are a majority of the Lambda Chi's, who seem to be the mainstays of many organizations. . . . Two of the brothers have won glory for themselves and their fraternity by designing and executing sets for the College Theater as well as creating effective backdrops for all the important campus functions. . . . Some of the brothers take an active part in the running of Skull and Bones, the International Relations Club, the Hilltop News, Theta Chi Delta, and Le Cercle Francais, the last of which has a Lambda Chi for president. . . . Not content with the existing groups on the campus, four of the brathers helped found the Scribblers' Club for writers which now has a publication of its own. . . . The boys still find time to make the anual Founders' Day Dance a roaring success and inflict a rigorous program on their pledges.

"How versatile can you be?" is the question most frequently asked by amazed bystanders who look over the list of PiKA accomplishments and wonder how one group can possess so many BMOC's. . . . The Shield and Diamond boys never stop to answer, however, but continue to go their lofty ways. . . . Chagrined losers in Interfraternity Sing are apt to make ugly remarks to the effect that "a certain fraternity" always pledges all the Choir just to win but the Pikes smile blandly and bear off still another trophy to add to the ever growing stock. . . . The flash of the PiKA crest ring is almost blinding as the gavels of ODK, Kappa Phi Kappa, Mu Alpha, the Choir, and Chi Sigma Phi are capably swung by the boys. . . . The Southern Accent and Hilltop News boast the presence of numerous ones of the brothers as does every other honor organization at Southern. . . . The finer points of math and economics are not the only ones grasped by the Pikes who also comprehend the intricacies of softball sufficiently to carry off the Intramural cup. . . . When the more sedentary wonder if all this activity isn't sometimes a little extreme, they get no satisfaction from the PiKA's who merely gallop on in quest of new fields to conquer.

The SAE's, who steadily refuse to respond to any accusation of being "sleep and eaters," are the politicians of the campus and have managed to hold sway in executive capacities for some time now. . . . A meeting of the Executive Council is at times confused with a Sig Alph active meeting, so many of the brothers are present. . . . One of the boys is even president of the student body, which makes it very nice all around. . . . Keys of Omicron Delta Kappa, Who's Who, and Skull and Bones nestle up to each other on the chains of these boys, and although the resulting noise is terrific, it does not drown out the liquid notes of those brothers in the Choir, and the crashing of College Theater scenery adroitly helfted around by some of the others. . . . Publications also claim a good part of the energy of the SAE's, who display a lot of talent on the athletic field as well. . . . Although the phrase "Phi Alpha" may evoke no response from the uninitiated, it has a galvanizing effect on the Sig Alphas whose response is frequently overwhelming. . . . Aside from sundry teas and dances, there is a general all out effort for the Mr. Hilltopper contest every fall which is the means of helping charity and regaining the good graces of National . . . The AOPi pin occur frequently in beauty pictures and on the stage as well as among the All Stars in girls' sports . . . The lasses seem to be fond of gems since they collect them with alarming rapidity and the AOPi motto seems to be "Pearls on every sweater and a diamond on every left hand."

This is the organization that sometimes doubles for the feminine half of Mu Alpha since all of the budding young musicians also seem to be the proud wearers of the jewelled lyre. . . . The Alpha Chi room is the only one with a grand piano, its inhabitants are quick to remind you, and since there is no dearth of talent, it is the most tuneful one in Stockham. . . . The abilities of these young ladies are not restricted to the fine art of counterpoint, however, extending to open recognition for excellence in beauty, mathematics, and executive ability. . . . Each Alpha Chi is a specialist and while one captures freshman scholastic honors and another takes her place in Mortar Board, still another is crowned a beauty and a fourth writes it all up in her newspaper column. . . . The Lyre girls seem particularly adept at holding down editorial spots on the student paper and making high grades in such subjects as Calculus and German. . . . They still find plenty of time to spend in their charity work, though, and frequently desert their pursuit of honors to spend the day knitting socks or dyeing Easter eggs.

Although those weird symbols on their pins have everybody at Southern, including the Gamma Phi's, confused, nevertheless there is no doubt that this is the group of girls with the "get up and go" spirit. . . . So easily and profusely have the honors cascaded down on them that one member is reported to have been forced to leave Southern in order to find new fields to conquer. . . . The Gamma Phi's are practically the mainstay of every honor society on the Hill and the story persists that the Student Life Committee will not recognize any organization whose secretary does not want the Moon pin. . . . Among the ranks of sisters are an Executive Council member, the secretaries of the YWCA and KDE, a Phi Beta Kappa, two editors of the Hilltop News, and three All Stars. . . . All these honors pale into insignificance, however, every Spring when the annual dance is held and the Lady of the Moon is selected. . . . This spot is the dream of every Gamma Phi, which probably accounts for the fistfuls of honor society keys which are willingly tossed aside to grasp that bouquet and take a seat in the papier maché moon.

These Zetas are the "mama's" with talents which range from snagging the most coveted awards on the campus to the running of every activity they are in. . . . No job is too trivial or too monstrous for the Turquoise and Grey misses to tackle and do well, whether it's handling the lights for a College Theater production, winning the tennis cup, or supplying the Executive Council with the majority of its feminine members. . . . Three Zetas came out win, place, and show in the beauty contest with the gleaming crown of Miss Southern Accent at last coming to rest on the soft tresses of one of the sisters. . . . Distinction of another sort came when the bone entwined tresses of another Zeta bore up under the dubious honor of being Sadie Hawkins. . . . The tuneful rendition of piquant melodies made ZTA tie for first place in Interfraternity Sing and the steady maintenance of a 2.5 plus average put them well on the way to retiring the Scholarship cup with a third win. . . . The various Zetas carried on in the capacities of President of Mortar Board, Secretary of the Executive Council, Miss Southern Accent, Vice-President of KDE, and a member of Who's Who, not to mention the fact that the Ping Pong Cup is almost exclusive ZTA property and the Dean's list usually looks like the Zeta chapter roll.

Although the Theta U's have the smallest number among the sororities, they are known far and wide as being the most active and ambitious group of girls at Southern. . . . The byword for them seems to be "Every member a wheel" which is evidenced by the fact that they have more honors per capita than you can count. . . . Mu Alpha, Amazons, International Relations Club, and the Hilltop News are guided by various ones of the Theta U's in the capacities of vice-president, secretary, editor and every other important post imaginable. . . . Almost every organization on the campus would shriek with despair if its T.U. component was withdrawn as they depend heavily upon the girls for enthusiastic members. . . . These various doings, along with accounts of the famous Theta U rush parties such as the Circus Party, are duly recorded by one of the sisters in her newspaper column which is avidly perused by every Hilltopper. . . . These girls enter into campus activities with charming abandon which sometimes results in such questionable honors as being voted Lena the Hyena. . . . Undaunted by these regressions and their limited number, the Theta Upsilon go merrily on.

These are the girls who are the delight of the crepe paper manufacturers because of their annual custom of covering the Gym with paper flowers for a White Rose Ball. . . . They are for the same reason the despair of the boys pressed into work details for strewing the laboriously manufactured posies into artistic patterns but the final result is always one of the best formals on the Hill. . . . The glamour of the occasion is by no means lessened by the presence of the numerous K.D.'s who beamed above the flash bulbs to make the beauty section of the Accent. . . . Ever aware of a good thing when they see it, the Southern men have bestowed fraternity pins with a lavish hand on these lovelies who accept them with justifiable self assurance. . . . Other honors which have rained down upon the pretty heads of the Kappa Deltas include the title of Daisy Mae, an inclusion in "Who's Who Among Students," an Accent editorship, two all-star titles, and five beauties. . . . Not bad for the girls who also found time for an extremely successful rush season, an anniversary tea, a Christmas tea dance, and a sports program which left one over zealous member with a broken wrist and the rueful memory of a three point landing.

"In my dreams I always longed to be a Pi Phi" go the words chanted at the slightest opportunity by these forty-two misses, and they evidently tell dreams before breakfast since that one came true. . . . The largest sorority on the Hill, the Pi Phi's have told the secrets of Cookie Shine to so many girls that it has become a matter as gigantic and hushhush as atomic energy. . . . The "Arrow" girls go out for every campus activity and their room in Stockham must be filled with bacon since they are particularly adept at bringing it home. . . . These porcine trophies encompass numerous beauty titles, the leadership of Entre Amigos and the YWCA, the Volley Ball Cup, a Who's Who miss, countless niches in Mu Alpha and Amazons, and the Interfraternity Sing Cup. . . . In addition to these mundane matters, the Pi Phi's find time for affairs of the heart to such an extent that observers often wonder if it is against sorority rules to wear the arrow without an accompanying fraternity pin. . . . In every activity on the Campus from the College Theater productions to the Student Book Exchange, the cry might very well be "Cherchez la Pi Phi."

Interfraternity Sing—The Winnahs!

Summertime at Southern has ceased to be an invitation to lethargy and has become instead one of the busiest seasons of the school year. The Starlight Opera, which is now in its fifth year, is one of the pet projects of the students and faculty and the project which undoubtedly requires the most time, work, and talent. Local singers combine with imported "name" talent to produce light operettas for the entertainment of not only the students of Southern but the people of Birmingham as well. Munger Bowl is converted into an open air theater where such stars as Mimi Benzell, Donald Gage, Ruby Mercer, Arthur Kent, and Johnny Silver appear in operettas like those of the 1948 season—The Fortune Teller and New Moon. The Starlight Opera has come to mean much work and much fun to the students, and the people from off the campus have come to look forward to the Starlight Opera as a summer evening full of pleasant entertainment, shirt sleeves, cokes, picturesque costumes, and lilting songs. The Starlight Opera is one of Southern's most colorful institutions.

Take off your shoes and haul out the fiddle—it's Sadie Hawkins Day on the Hilltop. That's the day when we all come to class in rags and tags and button and bows, and shotguns are the order of the day. The 1918 Sadie Hawkins Day flushed out a covey of real characters. "Hairless Joe" Cathcart showed up in a pair of trousers that he evidently swiped from an elephant friend and "Miss Semphonia" Cox sang beautifully while wearing a poke bonnet and mother hubbard straight from the Skunk Hollow Dress Shoppe. The wealthy Dogpatch set showed up in the new style Cadillac buckboard pulled by two streamlined mules to the amazement of all the natives who, nevertheless, were not so taken aback that they lacked the energy to get out for the traditional chase. The bonfire,

barn dances, and hay were there as always, and Daisy Mae Wise caught Lil Abner Oxford to the dismay of Sadie Hawkins Englebert. Mamma Yokum looked benignly on as a real Jim Dandy hoodlum made the old gym ring with Dogpatch gaiety. A week later we were still finding straw in our socks. Sadie Hawkins Day had come and gone.

More and more the campus is beginning to look forward to the annual Mr. Hilltopper contest when an all-male "girly" show is presented and the most popular man on the campus is chosen Mr. Hilltopper. All this is the brain child of the A.O.P.'s who use the proceeds to finance their charity project. It may be charity, but it's fun, especially when there are such gilt-edged entertainers as the 1918 contest produced. Pat "Gilda" Randall gave out with a torch version of "Put the Blame on Mame, Boys" and then a chorus line of the gaiest little soubrettes on the Hilltop—Chuck Collier, Booty Jennings, John Lovin, and Pat—did a real old-fashioned Can-Can. As if this weren't enough to leave everybody gasping for breath, a fashion show of the latest styles was presented by ten of the most attractive models available. If that was the new look, we'll take the old. The evening was dimaxed by the selection of D. S. Walker as Mr. Hilltopper of 1919.

What has more allure than the odor of greasepaint and the sight of a stage flat in the process of being painted? The answer is nothing at all. The College Theater at Southern is a hardworking group whose efforts always bear the fruit of entertaining productions. The Spring production was "Knight of the Burning Pestle" starring C. M. Dendy and was acclaimed one of the best plays ever to be given in the city. The Fall dramatization was "Alice in Wonderland" starring Kitty Holder and it was received by the students as a charming and always wonderful piece of nonsense. The Spring of 1919 saw "The Rivals" in production as the latest in the Theater's experiments with the traditional plays of the past being brought up to date for the entertainment of modern audiences. In between times, the College Theater found time to work up entertainments for the Miss Southern Accent contest and give their professional aid to the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore." The members of the College Theater are all too prone to agree with Pinocchio when he sang "Hi diddle de dee—an actor's life for me!"

Catspaw—the activity that brings delight to many, terror to come, and chagrin to others, those unfortunate few who find themselves being lampooned by their companions. Catspaw, along with Sadie Hawkins, is a time of informality for faculty and students. On the night of Catspaw anything can happen and nearly always does. This year, for example, Mrs. Hale showed up wearing the May Queen crown backward, Mr. Cathcart played "Summertime" on a soup kettle, and Dr. Butts sang a soprano aria while beguilingly perched on top of a piano. The faculty stunt was mild, however, compared to the mass head-chopping that went on in student stunts. The judges, though weak from laughter, rallied their strength to decide the group led by Bill Travis was the best. After it was all over, the greaspaint may have been a little hard to get off, but everyone agreed that Catspaw is really the "cat's meow."

In the spring a young man's fancy may lightly turn to thoughts of love, but a young woman's fancy turns to speculation as to the possessor of the May Queen crown. At least, the thoughts of the young women at Southern do. To rule as Queen of the May on the first day of Spring is considered the highest honor attainable by a senior woman. Students at Southern celebrate May Day with idyllic abandon, and the bursting greenery of spring is accompanied by white tulle, garlands of flowers, and laughter. For one day only the fairest and loveliest of Southern co-eds reigns supreme, surrounded by her beauty court, and has as her subjects the student body of Southern. May Day is a day of tradition, of happiness, and of beauty at Southern.

As the gentle warmth of spring begins to turn into the heat of summer, graduation day, the long-awaited Nirvana, comes at last. Then the soaring columns overlook a scene of traditional academic splendor. The scholarly black donates an unaccustomed austerity to its neophyte wearers but somehow the faces beneath the mortar boards are not all smiles. The last ritual—the speeches, the farewells, the diploma—pass all too quickly to the seniors now about to lose these things forever.

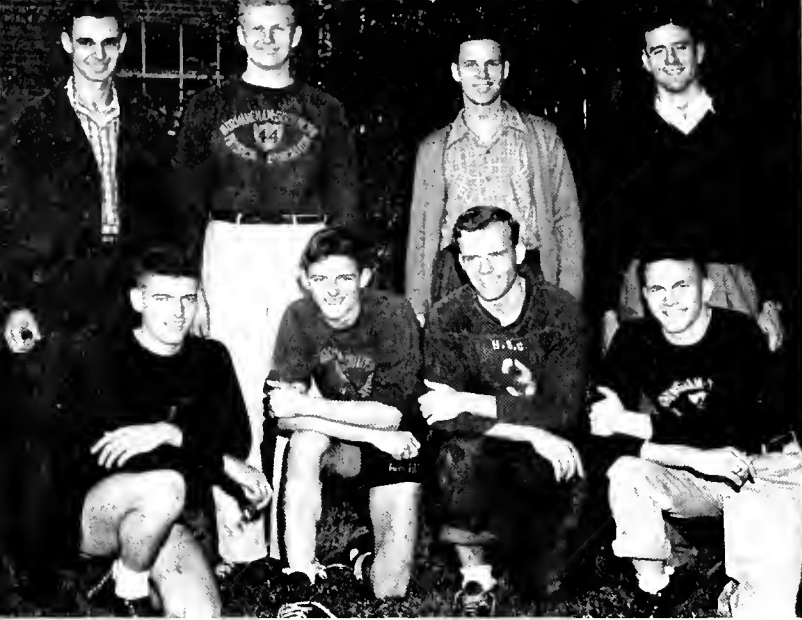

none but the brave

since the abandonment of intercollegiate sports years ago, the intramural program at southern has grown increasingly interesting and enthusiastic. any time of the day or year the hearty few can be seen leaping over tennis nets, hurling themselves from diving boards, and engaging in free-for-alls for the sake of good clean sport. what a small price a few bruises are for a plaque or a cup. the sports program at southern is carefully planned to include well-rounded, healthful activities for both men and women. it is one of the integral parts of our college life.

Kappa Alpha, with an abundance of track material filling its ranks, sped past the last-year-title-holding A.T.O.'s to grab first place honors, piling up a total of $70\frac{1}{2}$ points. This was three and a half more than the sixty-seven total garnered by the runner-up A.T.O.'s. The K.A.'s, winning three first places, won the meet despite the fact that the A.T.O.'s won the other eight of the eleven events. The K.A. win is credited to the oversupply of second, third, fourth, and fifth places. Individual honors went to Art Sharbel, the ATO-mic flash, for the second straight year. He won the one-hundred yard dash, the two-hundred twenty yard dash, the four-hundred forty yard dash, and was anchor man for the winning ATO relay team, to run up a total of sixteen and a half points. Next in line for honors was the "K.A. Peach," George Taylor, who had a total of fifteen and a half points coming from a first place in the shotput, a tie for first place in the high jump, and a third in the broad jump and discus. As shown by the totals, this track meet was really a battle between the winning K.A.'s and the runner-up A.T.O.'s, but the finishing order was as follows: first, Kappa Alpha; second, Alpha Tau Omega; third, Pi Kappa Alpha; fourth, Independent Rams and Sigma Alpha Epsilon (tie); and, fifth, Theta Chi.

his tournament, Bunny Moore was the "sultan of sweat," taking on some fifty to sixty contenders, and downing them all. Bunny, well-known for his lack of a backhand, used his right as well as his left, switching hands constantly. Bunny says it is just as well to have two good forehands as it is to have a good forehand and a good backhand.

Birmingham-Southern's varsity net squad under Coach Francis P. Gaines, annexed Alabama's tennis title for the second straight year, winning thirteen of their fourteen matches. Their only loss was to Mississippi State of the Southeastern Conference. In Alabama, and other southeastern states, the Cat netters downed such teams as Spring Hill, Howard, Auburn, Sewanee, Millsaps, Mississippi College, Southwestern, and Memphis State. In the spring intramural ten-

basketball

At press time, the Cat cagemen were just getting the 1949 basketball season underway. Coach Bill Burch's boys had played eight games to date, dropping six of them. They had lost games to Georgia Tech, Auburn, Alabama (twice), Howard, and Mississippi College, and had beaten Sewanee and Millsaps. Having fifteen or more games yet to play, the Cats were still untried, so to speak. Throughout the remainder of the season, they were expected to come up over the .500 mark and play the brand of ball that the Hilltop crowds want to see. The Intramural Basketball Tournament opened with the Ensley Independents defending their title against a league of sixteen teams. Strong teams were reported from the Rams, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Pi Kappa Alpha camps, with the addition of former varsity men, so it was expected to be a close race for the title.

Cletus Bonds, the A.T.O.'s were hard to beat. The tournament as a whole was characteristic of most Hilltop intramural play, in that the winner wasn't decided until the final tilts were history.

The Maltese Cross boys of Alpha Tau Omega outlasted a field of ten to come through with first place laurels in the Hilltop intramural football tournament. This fall sport win by the A.T.O.'s was mainly the result of late season wins plus late season losses by the earlier undefeated Ensley Independents. In early season play, Ensley downed all competition while the A.T.O.'s were losing two tilts, to the S.A.E.'s and the K.A.'s. In the do or die sprint down the stretch in the last weeks of play, Ensley lost three straight games, while the A.T.O.'s were going through the remainder of their season undefeated. With an outstanding line made up of pass-snagin' Hankman Webb Roberts, bull-dozing guards Booty Jennings and Bill Franke, who passed, kicked, and ran all opposition crazy, slingin' Rusty McDonald, and blocking back

Pi Kappa Alpha went undefeated in the eleven-team Hilltop league to top honors, and the coveted softball cup in a warm and heated spring softball tournament. This season was highlighted by keen competition and hotly contested tilts on the local Mungger Bowl diamond. Such games as the Pi K. A. 6-5 win over the fourth place K.A.'s, and the Ram 10-9 defeat of Enslev, were two good examples. Of course, there were the games of the opposite "color," such as the A.T.O. 16-1 win over L.X.A., and the Pi K. A. win over D.S.P. by a score of 17-0. Main causes of the Pike undefeated season were the outstanding efforts of these men: ball-hawking center fielder and captain, Jack White; star hurler of the league, Joe Crump; fence busting batsmen, David Parrish and Bill Walker; and airtight infield men, Jim Meacham and Alex "hot-corner" Smith.

After downing all Hilltop competition, the Pikes defeated the Sevanance intramural champs to take another cup. This time it was the intramural championship cup exchanged between the two schools' tournament winners.

The K.A.'s took first place in the fraternity league in this two league intramural sport and went on to take the tournament title, downing the independent league winning Rams. Sparking the K.A. drive to first place honors in this winter sport were spikers Bunny Moore, and Harold Myhand, along with big Bill Buck, the setup and kill artist, who brought many a ball off the net or near the floor and turned it into a KA point.

This season's intramural swimming meet was a battle between Kappa Alpha, with a winning total of thirty-six points, and the runner up Pi Kappa Alpha's with a total of twenty-two points. It might even be said that the meet was an individual battle between the K.A. high point man, Eddie Dunlavy, and the Pi K. A. runner up high point man, Frank Hull. The teams finished in this order: first, Kappa Alpha;

second, Pi Kappa Alpha, third, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, fourth, Lambda Chi Alpha; and, fifth, Alpha Tau Omega.

Eldon Sapp, of the Tusley Independents, blazed through a field of over one hundred ping pong enthusiasts to annex the ping pong title for the second straight year here on the Hilltop.

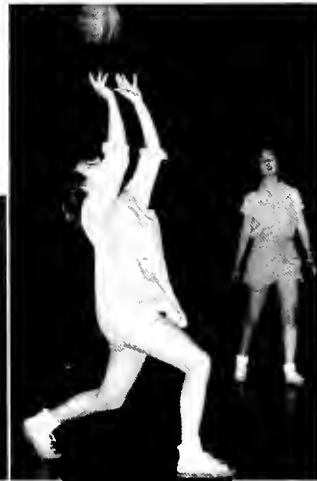

ment with the Pi Phis defeating the Kappa Deltas. The Pi Phis remained undefeated until the end of the tournament to win the volleyball cup.

The first major tournament of the year for the girls on the campus was the volleyball tournament, with Mary Ann Englebert as manager. After two weeks of the tournament, only two teams remained undefeated—the Pi Phis and the Kappa Deltas. These two teams met a few days before the end of the tourna-

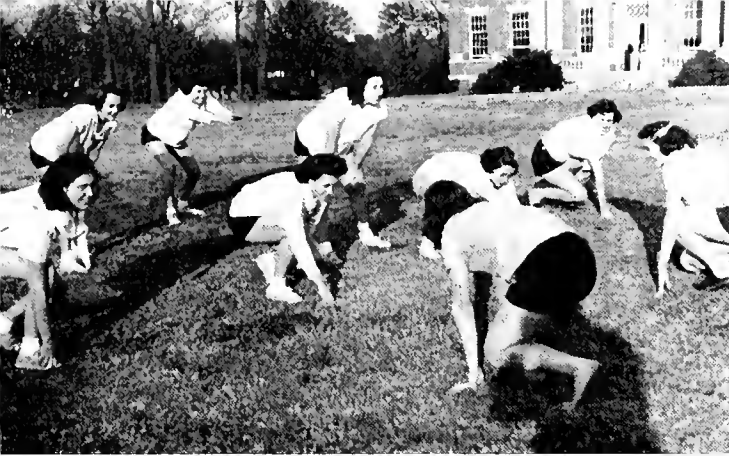

swimming

Again Betty Clem, as swimming manager, was in charge of the 1919 tournament. This was a fast and furious match last year with the Kappa Deltas winning. Raymona Brown led her team to victory and was one of the three high point women of the day. Jackie Davies, Pi Phi, and Betty Clem, Independents, also shared the honors. The Pi Phis were a close second in the match. Also on the winning Kappa Delta team were Margaret Cooper, Peggy Rountree, Elizabeth Wall, Naomi Webb, and Dot West. This is one of the most exciting of all the minor tournaments and, at press time, was expected to be a close race in 1919.

Another rainy Sadie Hawkins Day hit Birmingham-Southern, but the A-J, K-Z teams were undaunted. They carried on their annual football game on the quadrangle in a drizzling rain. The game began with the K-Z's kicking off to the A-J's. For two scoreless quarters the girls fought on with each team coming within a few yards of the goal but not going over. Finally, in the third quarter, the A-J's scored with a pass to quarterback Gladice Boullard, over the goal. Failing to make the extra point, the score was A-J 6, K-Z 0. In the last quarter, with a strong march down the field, the K-Z's threatened to tie the score, but a determined A-J team held their ground. The game ended with every one a bit damped and the score still 6-0.

This spring eight determined teams practiced to win the softball trophy. For over a month players and spectators showed up to support their respective teams. Hits and home runs galore made all the games very exciting. Few of the mainstays from last year's teams were back, and many new faces dotted the diamond on every team. The Tournament was an open battle with all teams striving equally hard to win the much coveted trophy.

This year the basketball tournament was one of the most exciting we had seen in years. There was keener competition than usual because three teams had already won the trophy twice each. The AOPi's, KD's, and the Independents were each in a position to retire the trophy should they come out on top. Practice week, before the beginning of the official tournament saw all the teams up in the gym practicing diligently. The Pi Phi's, ZTA's, and Gamma Phi's all had very good teams.

ping pong

Closely following the badminton tournament came the ping pong contest, with Betty Clem as manager. This tournament, too, was a fight to the finish when Kap Price, Pi Phi, defeated Pat Bowers, AOPi, for first place, giving the Pi Phi's their second trophy of the year.

of both sports. All seven sororities and the independents were represented in this, one of the largest of the tournaments. Up until the very end of the tournament, it was a draw as to which team would be victorious, but in the final match Raymona Brown and Stella Byars, both KD's, attempted to win the championship title. Stella Byars defeated Raymona Brown and the Kappa Deltas won the trophy.
